Promise Park

Thisbe and Noah were not on this Earth long enough to have lives full of people who knew and shared memories with them. So as their parents, we, Laurian and John Scott, set to the task of showing the world that it was made better, brighter and far more beautiful, because they lived.

Thisbe blessed us with nearly three years of her bright, infectious life. She was our baby girl, our sun, our joy, the "heart" of the house. She was the lover of bath and reading time. Play-Doh and games, the expert on animals in her language, and the "all done," "Daddy," and "book" signs. She loved going to the zoo, exploring the house for "treasures," digging in rocks, waterfalls and purses, cooking in her little kitchen, pushing the doll stroller, riding in the red plastic car, making our dog, Pango, eat bubbles. The world was her playground. She was the one who would gently pat your hand and tell you that you were the best. She was the Sparkle in Our Eyes.

Noah, for 18 months, he was our "Mama's Boy," our lover of drums, pacis, bath time, and the "all done" sign. He was the one who would say "Mama" and "Daddy" and "book" signs. He loved the jungle gym, the slide, and the "all done" sign. He was the one who would say "Mama" and "Daddy" and "book" signs. He loved the jungle gym, the slide, and the "all done" sign.

We got to love our baby boy, Noah, for 19 months. He was our "Mama Man," our lover of drums, pacis, bath time, and his "Mama Man" songs. He loved the jungle gym, the slide, and the water feature. He loved the aquarium, all things related to nature and learning wheels, balls of every type and size, swinging in his favorite swing, playing on the jungle gym, and his kitchen, and plastic cutlery. He loved the ball, he could bounce making "Sharkie, no! No!" the ball. He could make secrets of the world if only you could translate. He was the Best of Our Hearts.

I am going to the zoo! When I am at the zoo, I can play on the Jungle Gym and Thisbe & Noah's Promise Park Playground.

The Jungle Gym & Promise Park is a playground for everyone. I might have fun.

There might be other kids playing on the playground & that is ok. If the playground is too loud, I can ask my family to go to a quieter space.

I might have to wait in line to go on a play structure. I will do my best to be respectful by sharing & waiting my turn.

At the Jungle Gym I can do lots of different things from exploring the tall tower, slides, swings, a rope climb and more. The Jungle Gym is really big, so I will make sure I tell my family where I want to play.

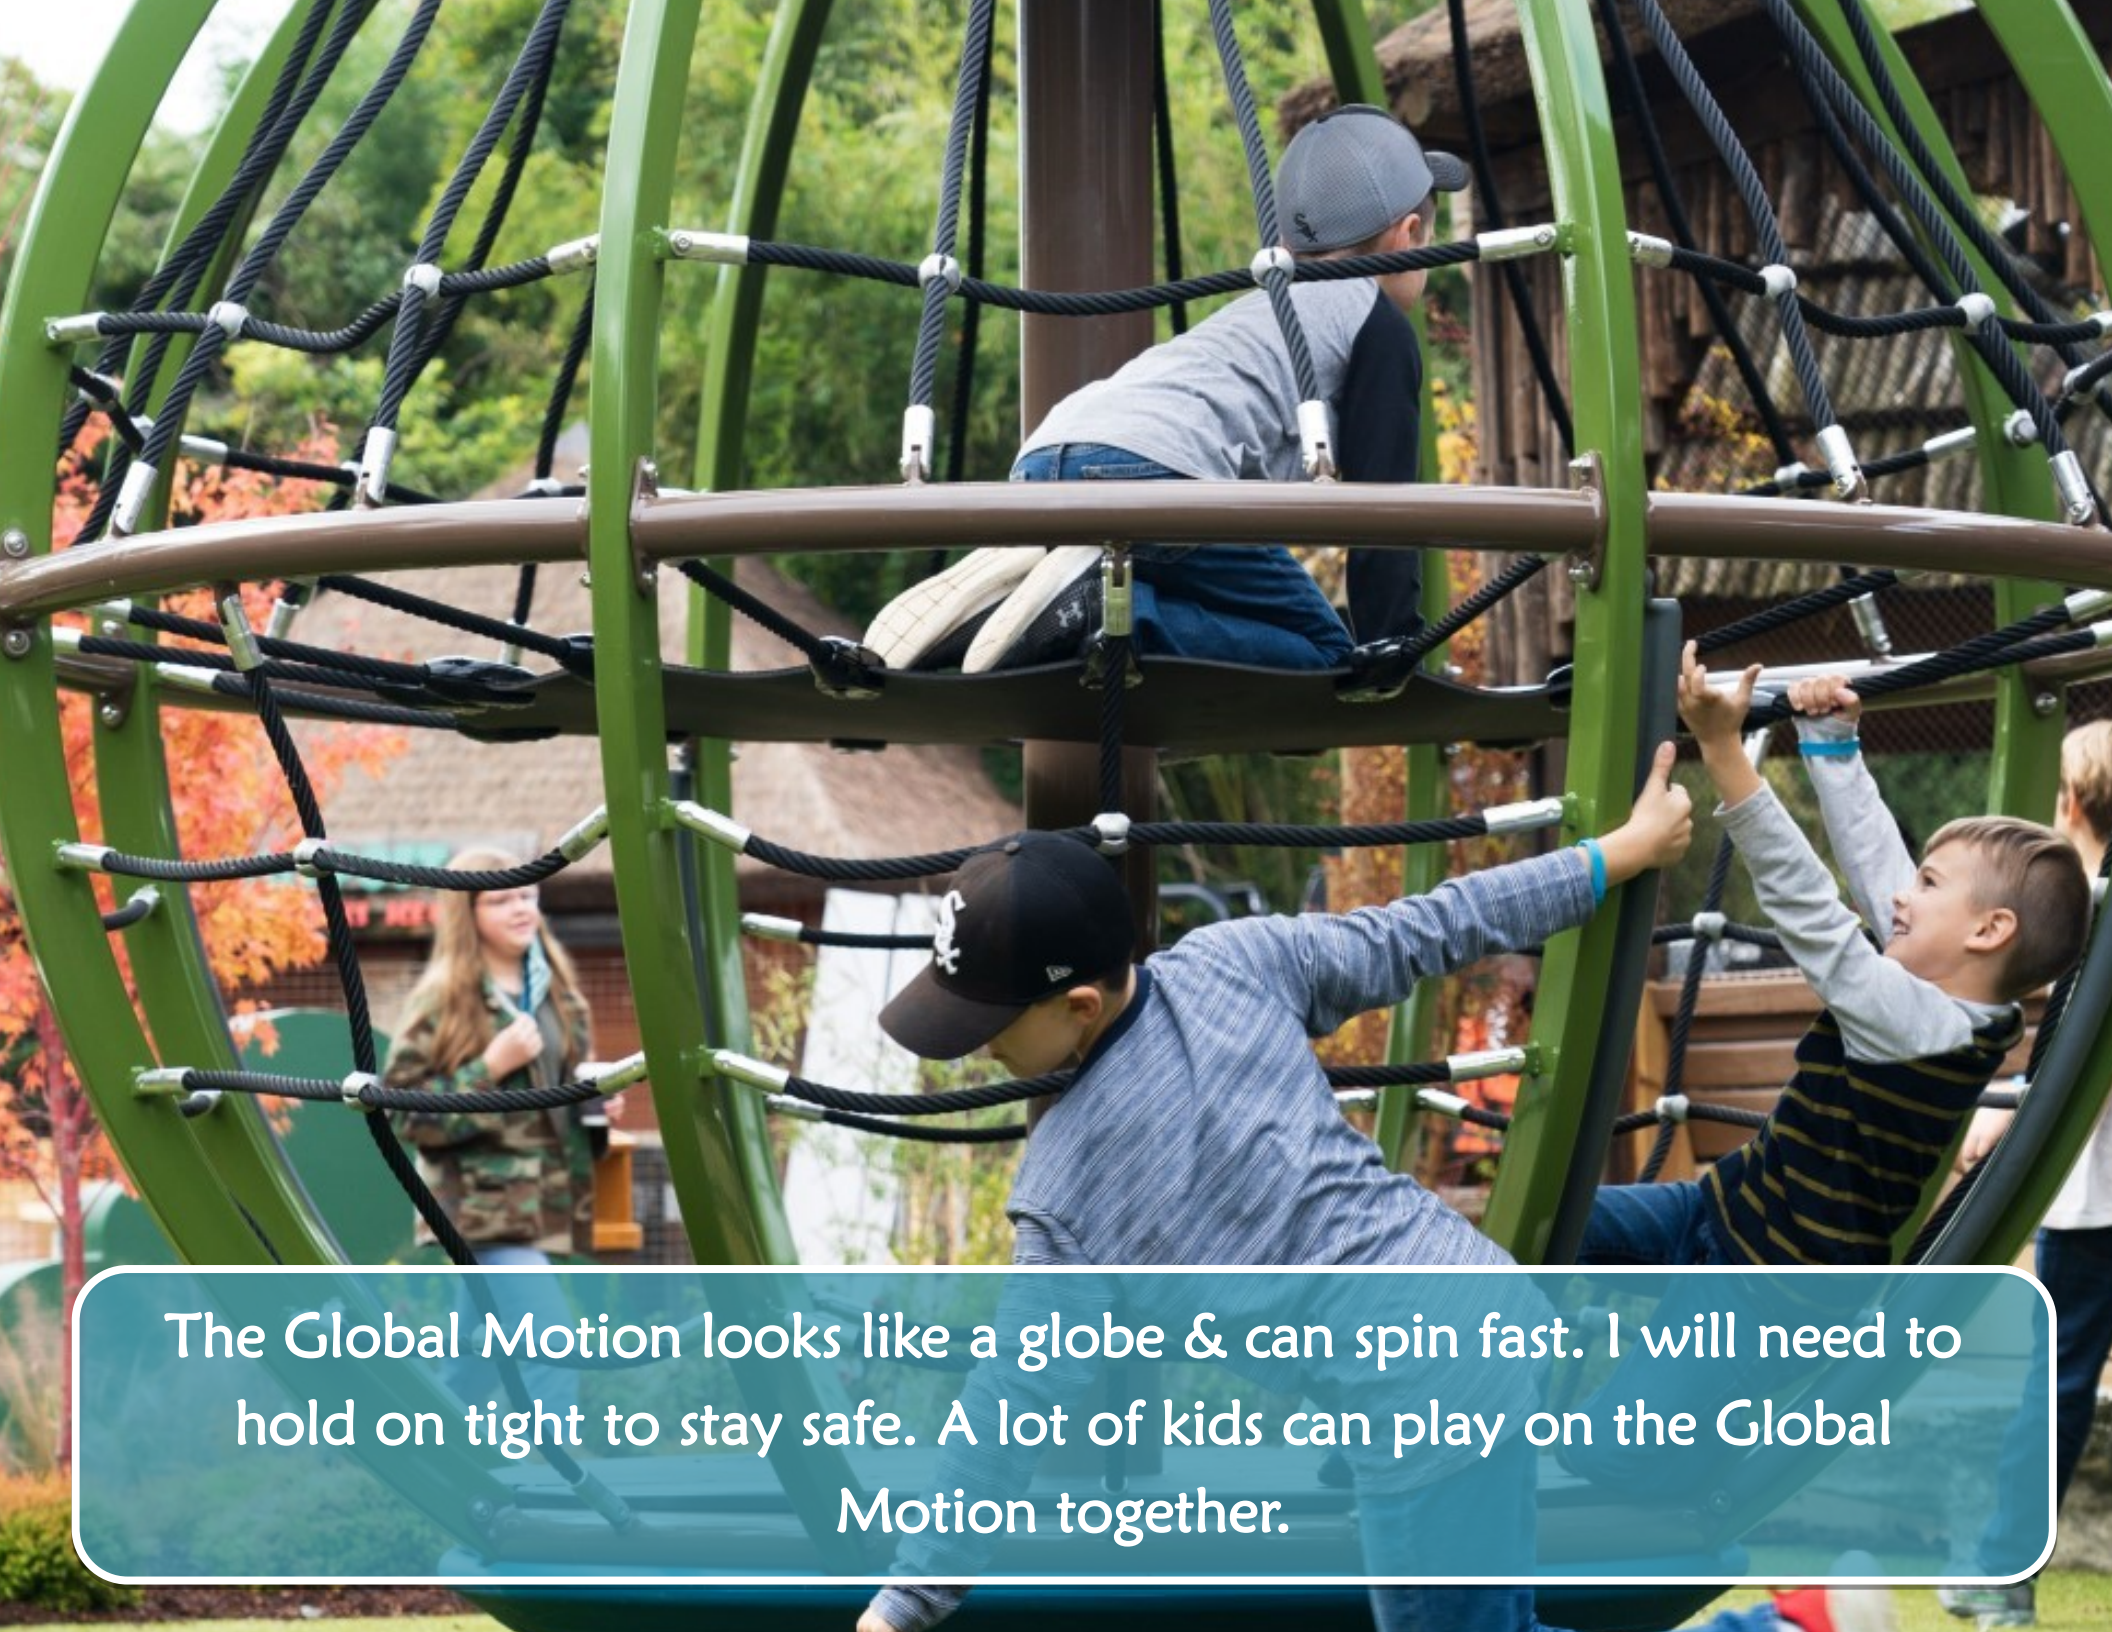

Part of the Jungle Gym is Thisbe & Noah's Promise Park Playground where there are more play structures I can play on & explore.

Trevor Tree Play Zone has a lot to discover like pretend animals, climbing towers & slides. Some slides might be hot if it is summer. I can put my hand on the slide first to make sure it is not too hot before I go down.

The Global Motion looks like a globe & can spin fast. I will need to hold on tight to stay safe. A lot of kids can play on the Global Motion together.

On the ZipKrooz, I will sit on a seat & go down & back a zip line. It might feel like I am going fast, but I will be safe. After I go down & back, I will let the next person in line take a turn. If no one else is waiting, I can go again.

Thisbe's Free Little Library might have books I can take home to read. If I want to bring a book to add to the library & share with others, I can do that too.

The We-Go-Round spins around & many children can play on it together. I can spin the wheel in the middle to make it go around. To stay safe, I will wait until it stops spinning to get off.

I can go on a scavenger hunt looking for Noah's Nature Hunt pictures. I can look for the objects in the pictures around Promise Park. If I don't find everything, that is ok. I might like looking for all the objects!

I might enjoy the Jungle Gym and Thisbe & Noah's Promise Park
Playground at the Zoo!
